SAVAGE BITTERS AT MARYLAND.—In one of the temporary sessions of the Maryland Legislature, which sat three or four days, wind up with the reading of the bills on the 2nd of November, the bill was introduced by Mr. W. Blount, of Baltimore, that it be enacted, "That no person shall be liable for damages for the death of another, if he acts in self-defense, in the heat of passion, or in the commission of a felony." This act, however, did not pass, and it is said many difficulties were experienced in getting a bill passed, and the bill was withdrawn. It is now introduced again, and it is expected to pass. The bill is introduced by Mr. W. Blount, of Baltimore, and it is expected to pass. The bill is introduced by Mr. W. Blount, of Baltimore, and it is expected to pass.

CHINESE SUPERSTITION.—The scene of the Chinese woman who was shot by a tallow-binder on Cem Creek side Thursday night drew out of the fact that the woman had accidentally spilt some water on him while washing her feet. It is believed by the Chinese that such an accident will bring misfortune to the person upon whom the water falls, and it becomes the duty of the Chinese person to present to the other a certain amount of candy and coin to avert the evil. The woman is in this strange superstition embroiled, but the man was not shielded, and threatened to shoot some one in the house. A few hours later he returned and deliberately shot the woman. She is in a precarious condition and with die.—San Francisco Bulletin.
